PILES! PILES! PILES!

A Sure Cure Found at Last—No One Need Suffer!

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated piles has been discovered by Dr. William, (an Indian remedy,) called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of twenty-five or thirty years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, instruments and electricities do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Pile Ointment: I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave me such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment.

For sale by George T. Wood or mailed on receipt of price, $1.

Skin Diseases Cured

BY DR. FRAZIER'S MAGIC OINTMENT. Cure as if by magic, pimples, black head or grubs, blotches and eruptions on the face, leaving the skin clear, healthy and beautiful. Also cures Itch, barber's Itch, salt rheum, tetter, ringworm, scald head, chapped hands, sore nipples, sore lips, old obstinate ulcers and sores, &c.

SKIN DISEASE.

F. Drake, Esq., Cleveland, O., suffered beyond all description from a skin disease which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. The most careful doctoring failed to help him, and after all had failed he used Dr. Frazier's Magic Ointment and was cured by a few applications.

The first and positive cure for skin diseases ever discovered.

Sent by mail on receipt of price, fifty cents

HENRY & CO., Sole Prop'rs,

For blind, bleeding, itching or ulcerated piles. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is a sure cure. Price $1, by mail. For sale by George T. Wood, druggist.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head, tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

Mrs. M. MARTIN, Cleveland, O.
Sold by George T. Wood at $1 per bottle.

"IF I SHOULD DIE TO-NIGHT."

If I should die to-night,
My friends would look upon my quiet face
Before they laid it in its resting place,
And deem that death has left it almost fair,
And laying snow white flowers against my hair,
Would smoothe it down with tearful tenderness,
And fold my hands with lingering caress,

If I should die to-night,
My friends would call to mind with loving thought
Some kindly deed the long hand had wrought,
Some gentle word the frozen lips had said;
Errands on which the willing feet had sped;
The memory of my selfishness and pride,
My hasty words would all be put aside,
And I should be loved and mourned to-night.

If I should die to-night,
Even hearts estranged would turn once more to me,
Recalling other days remorsefully.
The eyes that chill me with averted glance,
And often in the old familiar way;
For who could war with dumb, unconscious clay?
So I might rest forgiven of all to-night.

Oh friends, I pray to-night,
Keep not your kisses for my dead, cold brow.
The way is lonely, let me feel them now,
Think gently of me, I am travel-worn;
My faltering feet are pierced with many a thorn;
Forgive, oh hearts estranged, forgive, I plead,
When dreamless rest is mine I shall not need.
The tenderness for which I long to-night.

A WONDERFUL THING OF LIFE.

The Snake Story Season Opened With a Boom by a Georgia Genius.

Cumming Clarion.

In our boyhood we often heard of a hoop-snake, one that, bringing its head and tail together, rolled over and over like a wagon wheel. It is said that this snake did its execution with its tail, that being pointed like a needle. We never had the terror of seeing one of them, but did, when about eight years old, see a jointed snake. The joints were about six inches long. When alarmed the snake fell to pieces, the head joint darting off like an arrow to a place of concealment. That was the last snake of the kind we ever saw until quite recently we saw a hoop-jointed snake as we were walking leisurely one day through our field.

All of a sudden we were startled, out of ourselves by something rolling by us, which looked like the rim of a buggy wheel without the spokes. When it had passed about ten steps beyond us, in making an effort to turn, it accidentally struck the end of a projecting rail.

This must have alarmed it, for all at once it fell to pieces, and the head joint darted through a crack of the fence and into the swamp as quickly as possible.

Remembering the jointed snake of our boyhood and that our grandfather had told us if we would watch we would see the head return for the joints left, as badly as we were scared we determined to watch and wait the head's return. Not unmindful that we had been told by them of old time that the only protection from a hoop snake was to get behind a tree or stump on the opposite side from the one it was coming, and we took a position behind an old stump and waited for developments.

It was not long before the head came slowly and cautiously through the crack of the fence, raised itself to an angle of forty-five degrees, looked in every direction and then commenced the work of rejoining its body and tail to its head. This was soon done. Its next movement was to rear itself up perpendicularly, or in other words to stand on its tail.

As the head went up we distinctly saw that each joint possessed India rubber qualities, for as it went up each joint became extended until when the perpendicular position was attained, the head was eight feet high. Having taken its bearings it gradually contracted to four feet. It then made a circular dart for its tail and without more ado rolled off rapidly in the direction of Atlanta.

A REMARKABLE RIDE.

Vivan Fagin's Experience With a Crazy Man—A Narrow Escape.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Vivan Fagin had quite a remarkable experience yesterday afternoon, which might have cost him his life. While returning from the races in a buggy he met a man whom he has known for some time by the name of McCauley. He invited McCauley to ride home with him and the invitation was accepted. All went well until they got down on State avenue, Viv designing to visit a friend in that locality, when his companion suddenly caught hold of the lines and wildly demand that he be allowed to drive. Fagin said he couldn't think of it, and held on to the ribbons. But McCauley wouldn't give up, and snatching the lines, he whipped the horse and stood up in the buggy shouting at a fearful rate. Fagin for a minute or two was dumbfounded but the thought that he was riding with a crazy man flashed over his mind. The horse dashed on, and Fagin struck the man a powerful blow in the face, bringing the blood but he refused to yield, and fought Fagin off like a tiger. Finally, seeing that an accident could not be averted, Fagin resolved to have it come first as last. He shut his eyes and with both hands grabbed one line and pulled it with all his might. The furious horse suddenly turned, the buggy tipped and Fagin was thrown out. But on the animal went, the madman remaining unhurt in the buggy. Fagin was somewhat bruised, but able to get up and run on after the rig. In a few minutes the horse dashed to one side, and down a fifty-foot embankment, carrying the buggy and driver, and landing all in a heap. A crop of several hundred people had witnessed the affair, and many ran up expecting to find both horse and driver dead. The police also arrived by this time. McCauley was pulled from under the buggy, and, strange to say, he was not hurt beyond a few scratches. The horse also, for a wonder, escaped serious injury, but the buggy was badly demolished, both springs broken. Fagin was so excited that he tried to whip his strange friend, who was however, hustled off to the Sedamsville Police Station and locked up.

THE LOVE OF A GYPSY PRINCE.

Maltreated Because he has Chosen a Sweetheart Apart from his Tribe.

Three miles northwest of Dayton, Ohio, a community of gypsies own farms on which they reside during the winter. In summer only a number sufficient to cultivate the land remain, while the rest go wandering about the country. Sugar Stanley, known as the Gypsy King, is one of the largest land and property owners in the settlement. His son Richard, a handsome well-formed youth of 23, had fallen madly in love with a Miss Caylon, the daughter of a farmer near Brookville, Montgomery county. He first met her a year ago, when encampment near Brookville. The young lady came to Dayton recently, where she remains, and Richard has been devoted in his attentions to her. The Gypsy King and all of Richard's other relatives are bitterly opposed to this state of affairs. The father says it is contrary to the rules of the race for any one to marry out of it. He caused Richard's arrest a few days ago, but the case was dismissed. Yesterday Richard applied to a magistrate for protection against his father's persecutions; but as the application was not formally made, nothing came of it. He was accompanied to the magistrate's office by a brother of his sweetheart. He says his father has knocked him down, pointed a pistol at his head, and threatened to kill him. He says, further, that he is tired of gypsy life, and means to abandon it. The father has selected a gypsy girl for him whom the young man says he detests. The King says he will sell out, leave the country, and give Richard no more money.

The trial of the Star Routers is progressing at Washington and will probably last a month.

The villainous work still goes on at Washington. On Friday Mr. Finley, of Florida, was deprived of his seat which was given to the republican contestant.

A STRIKE of the local iron workers was inaugurated at St. Louis, Mo. It is estimated that the movement will deprive about five thousand men of employment.

An Indianapolis preacher has been presented with a pair of sleeve buttons by a well-known gambler, because he said in a sermon that common gamblers were no worse than speculators in stocks.

On its Feet Again.

Cincinnati Times-Star.

The firm of P. P. Dickinson & Co., contractors for the new Cincinnati & Southeastern Railroad, have made a settlement in full with every sub-contractor and others under their charge for every day's work done on the road up to the time of suspending operations. The company is now having an estimate made of all the work so done on the road, and as soon as that is complete there is every prospect of work being resumed and the road completed by the same Company and the same contractors. All the gentlemen connected with the road, who have located at Newport are comparative strangers here, but it is admitted on all sides that no more honorable and cleverer gentlemen ever did business with our merchants and others with whom they had dealings.

The Hon. John Dexter Kehoe Denies of it.

The Hon. John Dexter Kehoe among his other accomplishments is gifted with prophetic power. He predicted that certain articles concerning the Maysville BULLETIN, would appear in the Carlisle Mercury, this week, and lo! behold! they were printed precisely as he foretold. He could not have been more accurate if he had written the articles himself.—BULLETIN.

The "Hon. John Dexter Kehoe," as you are pleased to call him, predicted no such thing as above printed. He predicted nothing whatever in regard to the BULLETIN or Mercury, and the statement that he did so predict has no foundation in truth or in fact, and the BULLETIN knew it when it published the item.

He has never, as you insinuate, written, dictated, suggested or "predicted," any editorial matter for the Mercury and has nothing whatever to do with its columns, and knows as little about what is to appear in the Mercury as he does that which is to appear in the BULLETIN; or any other paper, and he believes the BULLETIN knows this, also. He has been attending exclusively to his own business, assisted largely by the BULLETIN, and has no responsibility for what may, or may not, appear in the Mercury, and does not wish any controversy with BULLETIN.

He is not in the newspaper business and does not want to be. He has not advised or "predicted" the starting of a "Democratic paper," or any other kind of a paper, in Maysville, but has persistently refused to engage in such enterprises, although frequently substantially solicited to do so, and he hopes the BULLETIN will possess its soul in peace upon this subject.

He has endeavored to treat the BULLETIN justly, fairly and courteously upon all occasions, and knows no reason why that institution has not behaved in a like manner toward him, no reason why it should display such an unceasing abundance of warmth in pursuing him, with its slurs, insinuations and misrepresentations, into every avocation, unless it be through selfishness, illiberality or blind, unreasoning malice. Very respectfully,

J. D. KEHOE.

Maysville, Ky., June 3, 1882.

The Assassin Losing Pluck.

Washington Critic.

An adage as old as the hills says: "Time and tide wait for no man." The condemned assassin realizes that time is not waiting, and that every succeeding day hastens him nearer that time when the sentence of the law will be executed and he will be precipitated into eternity. The cheerful demeanor and hopeful expressions which have characterized him throughout have vanished like sunshine before the gathering masses of a muttering thunderstorm. The familiar air of bravado is gone, and in its stead the ashen hue of terror has appeared. Reading and writing, once favorite occupations, are not now resorted to by the assassin. His earnest ponderings are only relieved when occasionally he paces the stone floor of his cell unmindful of the dead watch, whose eyes are ever upon him, wringing his hands and talking in a most incoherent manner. A few nights since he retired to his prison cot about 10 o'clock, and in less than half an hour he awoke in the most startled manner, and looking wildly around, the weird moon-light pouring in through the grated window, exclaimed, his voice trembling with excitement: "I see horrible phantoms before me. What shall I do? My poor brains reel. Oh, why did I assassinate him?" It took some time to pacify the assassin, and when he became quiet he calmly said: "Don't mind what I said, I was dreaming. We all dream at times. I am no coward, nor am I afraid to die." "But," he continued, "it is not possible that President Arthur is going to permit them to hang me after what I did to redeem the Republican party. No, I do not believe he will. If he reprieves me or commutes my sentence hoodlums will howl, but the respectable element of society will stand by him and indorse his action."

Having relieved his mind on that score, he again retired to his cot, but only to find troubled rest. Perhaps the ghastly phantom again visited his bedside, a frightful reminder of the act and the near approach of the hour of vengeance, when from the Pacific to the Atlantic and the Lake to the Gulf, the click will announce to an indignant people, "Garfield is avenged."

A gentleman who lately visited the assassin spoke of the near approach of the hanging day and desired him to make his peace with God. Turning with a half-frightened look, the latter said: "If man fails in this matter, if Charley Reed, does not succeed and if President Arthur does not stretch out his hand to save me, there is One above who prompted me to take one life for a country's good and who protected me from the bullets of Mason and Jones, that will still protect me. The first hand that is laid upon me for the purpose of doing violence will be instantly withered. I fear not man's power. I am God's man, and He'll protect me."

COUNTY POINTS.

MAYSLEICK.

Wheat in this neighborhood, notwithstanding the late freeze, is looking well and prospects are that we will have more than an average crop. Tobacco plants plenty, looking well, corn a better stand than usual and crops generally very flattering.

H. R. Luman & Co. have moved their portable saw mill near Mayslick on the farm of Samuel Collins. During the past winter and spring they sawed 125,000 feet of lumber for D. D. Allen, near Ewing Station.

M. W. Clark is visiting friends in Lewis county.

Miss Bennie Umstadt, who has been on the sick list, is again able to entertain her many friends. RAMBLER.

A. Laytham is through setting out tobacco.

Mrs. Polly Bradley, aged eighty-five years, was able to ride horse back last week, on a visit to her granddaughter, Mrs. Wells, who is very sick.

Uncle Campbell Klug celebrated his eightieth birthday a few days since.

All crops are now doing well since the rains. Tobacco plants are small, hence tobacco setting will be backward.

John Wallingford, of Fern Leaf, is in Cincinnati, watching the tobacco market. R.

The residence of Mrs. Geo. Cox, on Front street is being repaired.

Mr. L. F. MANN, of Carlisle, has bought the stage line of the late John Huff, and placed it in the charge of Mr. W. P. Campbell, a careful and competent driver. He will make tri-weekly trips between this city and Flemingsburg leaving Maysville Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, returning alternate days.

Closing Exercises.

The closing exercises of Mrs. Jennie Dacres' school took place last Friday afternoon and were of more than the usual interest. The following prizes were awarded. In the study of the sciences the contestants were Misses Louie Brewer and Ella Power, and as their standing was equal, the medal, which was of solid silver, was drawn by lot and fell to Miss Ella Power. A similar medal was for scholarship, Misses Ida Power, Sallie Rains and Allie Alexander contesting for it. The young ladies were equally proficient and this medal also was awarded as the above and was drawn by Miss Allie Alexander.

The following named pupils were awarded prizes for proficiency: For excellence in arithmetic, Misses Maggie Allison, Annie Shackelford and Nannie Watkins; deportment, Miss Aggie Dodson, and Master Thomas Darnell. A handsome volume of poems was given to Miss Emma Geisel for excellence in penmanship. Rewards of merit were awarded to the following: Misses Anna Darnell, Ida Alexander, Masters Joseph Martin, Porter Skinner, Allen Dodson and John Reynolds. The medals and other testimonials were delivered to the successful contestants by the Rev. M. D. Reynolds with remarks appropriate to the occasion. The medals were of handsome design and bore appropriate inscriptions. Mrs. Dacres' school is in a flourishing condition, and the pupils appear to have made excellent progress this session.

SENTENCED FOR LIFE.

Another Scene in the Awful Ashland Tragedy.

Special to DAILY BULLETIN.

CATLETTSBURG, KY., June 2.—The jury find Ellis guilty of the murder of Robbie Gibbons, and sentence him to the penitentiary for life. The jury went out at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, and were out all day and all last night, only bringing in a verdict this morning.

The verdict was not unexpected, from the charges to the jury, but there is an evident feeling of disappointment among the Ashland people present, who assert that if Ellis deserved any punishment at all he deserved hanging. Craft and Neal, his alleged accomplices, at their trials, were both sentenced to be hanged, but they will get new trials, and the general impression is that they will escape with their lives. Ellis, at his trial, denied entirely the confession he previously made, and which went so far toward the conviction of Craft and Neal.

They Spared His Uprofitable Life.

Many years ago, when Denver didn't have any opera-house, and the Rocky Mountain country was the terra incognita of the world, there wandered out to the region of Fort Benton a man named Exbeadle, who made himself unpopular among the Shoshones by killing some of their most prominent men whenever he could catch them away from home.

As a result of this course of procedure, Mr. Exbeadle had a large private cemetery, and hostilities were declared by the tribe.

Mr. Exbeadle was a speculator, and one day fortune threw in his way a lot of fireworks that didn't meet with a ready sale, and he purchased them, more for his own amusement than anything else. These he put to one side, and didn't think of them again until one day there was a council of war in the Shoshone tribe, at which it was resolved to extinguish the light of Mr. Exbeadle and send him across the mysterious river.

They notified him that the intention was to make him climb the golden stair in about fifteen minutes, Western time. It looked pretty dubious for the defendant for a moment, and he didn't know exactly what to do, not having time to consult counsel.

It was a dark night in autumn, and Mr. Exbeadle felt that the morrow would be of very little interest to him.

Like an inspiration, however, came the recollection of his fireworks. He rose and said:

"Gentlemen of the forest, you apparently have the bulge on me and I admit you are largely in the majority, but you do not know me. I am a medicine man from Michigan, and I can make it mighty interesting for you if you carry this thing too far. I just say this for your own good, and more in sorrow than in anger. If you take out my vitals and feed them to the vultures, I will linger near you in the spirit, and I will annoy you pretty plenty. I am aware that I have planted some of your leading men in the cold, cold ground, but that isn't a marker to what I will perform when I get out of the flesh where I won't be delayed by the inclemency of the weather.

"I will now proceed to show you a few little amateur efforts of mine as a medicine man from away back."

Mr. Exbeadle then let off a new style of sea serpent from a slight elevation. It was the biggest thing in the line of pyrotechnics that was ever turned loose west of the Missouri. It shot out into the dark about nine feet like a car load of delirium tremens and squirmed through the inky bo-om of night like an uneasy demon walking in his sleep. The gathered warriors of the tribe took one horrified look at the hissing emissary of hell, and lit out. They left all their baggage that didn't happen to be tied to them, and there hasn't been a Shoshone Indian seen there since.

Mr. Exbeadle picked out the best ponies belonging to the tribe, loaded up the rest of his fireworks and went home. He lived many years after, and became one of the most trusted Indian peace commissioners known in Western history.—Laramie Boomerang.

The story that Prince Louis Napoleon was murdered in Zululand by emissaries of French refugees in London, is, according to the St. James' Gazette, ridiculously untrue. When the Empress went to Zululand, Sir Evelyn Wood, who accompanied her, succeeded in calling in to him half a dozen Zulus, who, trusting to his assurances that they would take no harm by relating what they knew of the Prince's death, described the part they had taken in attacking and killing him. Their account of the matter was that more than one assegai was cast at him as he courageously faced his foes, and that if he had not tripped in a hole in the ground and fallen upon his knees just as he was exchanging the revolver which he had got in his left hand for an assegai (the first thrown him) which he had picked up with his right, his assailants would have had to pay for his life. As it was, he was despatched before he could recover from the stumble, and while he was passing his revolver from his left hand to his right, for steadier aim.

Commodore Garrison is said to be worth more than $25,000,000. It looks as if Garrison will be able to hold the fort.

BATCHELDER'S

Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensable to Merchants Shippers and Producers.

THE CHEAPEST AND THE BEST.

THE ONLY PRACTICAL CASE.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case without rehandling.

For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, adding, or breaking, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

PRICES IN CHICAGO.

Shipper's No. 1, 30 doz. Case with Fillers complete.....65 Cents.

Farmer's No. 1, 18 doz. Case with Fillers complete.....55 Cents.

Cardboard Fillers for refilling 20 Cents.

15 per cent. discount on lots of 100 cases.

Batchelder's Egg Tester, testing 6 doz. at once, saves to buyers many times its cost each season. Price $3.00.

By special arrangements made by the manufacturers of this case most Railroads will receive them as fourth class freight.

The 18 dozen case made especially for Farmers' use, sent to any address by express, with out nailing, with full directions for setting up, on receipt of 50 cents. Every Farmer and consumer should have one of these cases, it will save its cost every month. Agents wanted in every county. Address,
